Shows His Food-Special Care in His Selections.—"Mysteries" Hilly Smith on Board.

CARSON, March 2.—Nobody could withstand the temptation to venture out-to-lay, and, with the exception of Dan Stuart, all invalids from the visiting colony were about town. Stuart yielded to a good appetite this morning and now regrets having eaten so much breakfast. His physician ordered him back to bed, and he is once more on the exclusive list.

Corbett gave up the entire day to his wife and sister, who decorated his quarters and received the visitors. In the evening he limbered up a little at handball, but did not attempt any heavy work.

Fitzsimmons changed his mind about visiting Carson today, and shortly before noon he closed his door, the tell-tale of a hunger and asked the driver to "fix up." The animal was a speedy trotter, but Fitz hung on the entire distance to the city, which was reached in twelve minutes.

Slepping up to a punching machine at the end of his trip, he sent the indignant sprinter up to the 400-round mark with a straight left jab. Going home he took matters easy and ate a hearty dinner. Bob complained of a soreness about his joints, which is probably a result of the cold which he has been nursing ever since he arrived.

The hot springs at the State penitentiary have done the champion a world of good, and he expects that before the week is over all lameness will have disappeared.

"Fitz" has been to the office for Spuds Sullivan, Yonkers, New York.—No, he never received a telegram over him.

J. P. Brooklyn.—He was born at Brooklyn, New York, on July 26, 1878.

His room is open to meet any 125-pounds.

Jimmy D. Forrest has agreed that Lou Beck will be his manager on next Saturday night.

Hilly Smith has agreed to meet Jim Lavelle on March 15, 1897.
